PAY CUTS TO SAVE $2,675.86

New Legislation To Slice Substantial Sum Off County Officials' Salaries.

BASED ON SLIDING SCALE

Occupants of 17 Positions, Elective and Appointive, To Be Effected.

Savings totaling $2,673.86 will accrue to Marion county each year when the schedule of salary reductions for county elective officials, election board members and election board office employes adopted by the legislature in its special session last week becomes effective here.

Application of the schedule of salary reductions voted by the legislature will reduce from $32,323.76 a year to $29,649.90 the salaries of elective officials, election board members and office employes.

Not all of these savings will be effected at once, as new salary schedules for officials must await the beginning of new terms of office. It is impossible, officials explain, to change the salary of an elective official during his term of office.

Salaries provided by law for 17 county positions will be affected by the economy measure.

County positions affected by the economy bill, the present salary specified by law for each position, and the amount of savings to be effected under the economy bill follow: auditor, treasurer and probate judge, $3,300, a saving of $220 on each salary; surveyor, $2,216, to be reduced $307.40; clerk of courts, $2,775, to be reduced $266.57; prosecutor, $2,530, to be reduced $218.75; sheriff, $2,475, to be reduced $209.27; recorder, $2,250, to be reduced $181.25; deputy clerk of the board of elections, $1,800, to be reduced $130; county commissioners (three), $1,206.22, to be reduced $84.86; clerk of the board of elections, $958, to be reduced $45; election board members (four), $992, to be reduced $20.10 each.

The schedule of reductions on which these savings are based provides for a five per cent reduction on the first $1,000; 10 per cent on the second $1,000; 12½ per cent on the third $1,000; 15 per cent on the fourth $1,000; 17½ per cent on the fifth $1,000 and 20 per cent on all above $5,000.

MARIONITES JOIN IN GREETING PRESIDENT

Thirty Marion residents were among the thousands of persons who gathered at the Pennsylvania railroad stations yesterday in a dozen Ohio cities to see President Hoover on his return trip to Washington, following a campaign speech Tuesday night in Des Moines, Ia.

Congressman Grant E. Mosier, Jr., boarded the presidential car at Crestline where the small group of Marion Republicans joined a crowd of 800 to greet the president, and introduced Hoover as "Your President, who has been carrying you through the trying hours."

Other short stops in Ohio were made at Van Wert, Lima, Upper Sandusky, Bucyrus, Mansfield, Loudonville, Wooster, Massillon, Canton and Alliance, with brief addresses by the President at each. In other towns and cities the train moved slowly and President and Mrs. Hoover waved to the assembled crowds.

Speaks at Crestline

At Crestline, the President said: "The President of the United States is not altogether a party man. He is the President of all the people. Here in Crestline is evidence of what your government is trying to do to help you. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has made an advance to the Pennsylvania railroad which enables it to give employment to people along its route. This is at least one evidence of what the government is trying to do to help you. Thank you very much for coming out."

As the train pulled out, the President bent down to shake hands with W. H. Hoover of Crestline, a Civil war veteran. The Crestline American Legion post brought its band to the train. Marilyn Jeanne Weaver, 4, daughter of the president of the women's auxiliary of the Legion post, was lifted up to present to Mrs. Hoover two large baskets of flowers.

1,100 IN AUDITORIUM FOR COOKING SCHOOL

New Record for Attendance Set as Crowd Fills Hall; Friday Last Day.

A record crowd attended the Wednesday afternoon session of The Marion Star's eighth annual cooking school and saw the lecturer, Mrs. Ruth Campbell start and finish a one-egg cake, pigs in potatoes, graham gems, a surprise loaf and other tempting dishes on the stage in The Star auditorium.

Approximately 1,100 women attended the session, the largest number ever to assemble in the auditorium for an event of this kind. The women chatted with Mrs. Campbell by way of notebook and pencil and dozens of different subjects were again discussed and ideas exchanged during the period devoted to a question box.

Mrs. Campbell devoted a part of her time to calves and their apparent whims, and the whys and wherefores of good, bad and indifferent foods of this kind were discussed. She stressed the necessity of accurate measuring and emphasized the fact that all measurements should be level. Housewives whose whole days are ruined when a cake, upon which they had spent so much amount of time and patience in making, cracks on the

MOVE MADE TO DETAIN INSULL

Found with Bags Packed, So Officer Seeks Arrest.

IS AFTER WARRANT

By The Associated Press

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 6 — John Hampton, assistant state's attorney of Cook county, Ill., arrived here today and announced that he would apply for a provisional fugitive warrant for the arrest of Martin Insull, former public utilities magnate who is under indictment in Cook county for embezzlement and larceny.

Hampton said Insull refused to waive extradition and return to Chicago when interviewed this morning at Orillia, Ont.

"Mr. Insull's packed bags indicated to us he might be going to Montreal or some coastal port in an effort to get to Europe but he denied any such intentions," said Hampton.

"We will make every effort to have him taken into custody until a presidential warrant arrives. We were given to understand that Mr. Insull intended leaving Canada yesterday, but returned to Orillia when he found his movements were being given wide publicity," the assistant state's attorney said.

"He also was very independent and would not cooperate with us in any manner. He merely shook his head to all questions, and refused to reach any understanding," Hampton added.

After a conference with Ontario officials here, Hampton said he would decide whether to go to Barrie, the county seat, to start legal procedure, or remain here and continue efforts to obtain Insull's arrest.

County Asked for Extradition Funds.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6—An intimation that unless the Cook county board vote funds for expenses of extradition of Samuel and Martin Insull, an inquiry may be started by the grand jury, was given today by State's Attorney John A. Swanson.

Balked twice by refusal of the board to grant him funds to push extradition, Swanson telephoned Emmett Wheelan, president of the county board, asking that the board be called into session to vote $10,000 estimated necessary for extradition proceedings.

Wheelan replied that the board had no funds available.

"The grand jury voted those indictments," Swanson told Wheelan, "and maybe the members of that jury are interested in seeing the cases prosecuted."

PARIS, Oct. 6—Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate and his son, Samuel Jr., still had not returned to his hotel shortly before noon today when an attempt again was made to reach him to comment on his indictment in Chicago. They left the hotel early yesterday morning.

Warming Up

(NEA Service Special)

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 6 — I read Mr. Hoover's speech, every word of it. Now he may be dry, but somebody sure slipped him a couple of cups and told him, "Go out there and tell them something. Don't 'em a speech or they won't think it's Hoover."

And I want to tell you he took right after em. Course, another thing was in his favor. A man can put a little more into a speech when it means his job. Some men will stand for a lot of things, but you start taking their women or their job away from 'em and you are going to get something besides platitudes.

I'll tell you, Al and Franklin didn't make up a day too soon. They made up; going to bury the hatchet. Decided to bury it in Hoover. Yours,

Taxi Business Fine—If Fares Would Only Pay

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 — From Steubenville, O., to Chicago is just $139.65 distance as the taxi meter clicks.

This rather expensive bit of research was completed yesterday by John Hackenberg of Steubenville, in his own cab—and he would like to get paid for it, he intimated to police. This is the story he and a companion, Bert Callendar, of Mingo, O., related.

That Tuesday night they were hailed by two gentlemen.

"To Chicago," they directed, exhibiting revolvers by way of emphasis.

And Chicago it was. At the end of the trip, the two men got out, ending what Hackenberg reflected was his most flourishing stroke of business.

"How much?" the men asked Hackenberg.

"$139.65," he replied.

"Very interesting," the farce shouted—from over their shoulders, which was the last the taxi men said they heard of them.

top, were heartened when the lecturer designated them as "friendly" cakes.

Surprise Loaf

The answer to "what to serve for Sunday night supper" was found in Mrs. Campbell's "surprise loaf." A well-balanced meal is provided in the loaf which has for a filling, dressing, cabbage, pimento, sandwich spread, cheese and lettuce. This with bacon and coffee makes a delicious meal she said.

The making of gems and muffins together with the questions from the audience kept the lecturer returning to the problem of cake baking. She cautioned the women against losing time in opening cupboards and cabinets in a search for their ingredients and blends and emphasized the saving of steps and nerves by having all the articles for making the cake together before beginning. Begin the thickening of a cake with flour and end it with flour she told her audience, and placing waxed paper around a loaf cake bakes it a lovely brown all over she said. Four tablespoonful of cocoa are equal to one square of chocolate she stated in discussing devil's food cake, and to make a devil's food cake black always use chocolate instead of cocoa and always use boiling water. Angel food cake, Mrs. Campbell believes, should be baked in a temperature of 320 degrees for one hour.

The pigs in potatoes were plump little sausages blanketed with potatoes and fried in deep fat. These, by the way, may be made before a meal and warmed up either in deep fat or in the oven.

Children Not Forgotten

Children are not forgotten in Mrs. Campbell's lectures and demonstrations and she urges mothers to see that they get a "break" in the home. Things must be tempting always, she believes, because "all members of the family are not hungry at the same time."

Mrs. Campbell generously adds a new recipe for good measure and yesterday's contribution was New Orleans potato puffs. The recipe calls for potatoes sliced quite thin as though for potato chips, place them in ice water for an hour, drain and wipe. Drop the slices into deep hot fat and remove as soon as they come up. Then place in refrigerator and just before serving drop into deep fat again. This causes them to "puff" up.

Mrs. Campbell's words kept pace with her fingers as she told the importance of salads in the home, let the women in on a new recipe for using breadcrumbs by soaking them in milk, season highly and use them for stuffing pork chops, compared the social conventions of post-Civil war days to the present and dozens of other interesting and helpful ideas.

The cooking school will close with the session Friday afternoon.

Blemishes Caused Incessant Itching, Healed by Cuticura.
"For three or four years I had been bothered with blemishes and other skin disorders. The trouble began with pimples appearing on my forehead, and then spread all over my face. They were large, red and hard, and scaled over. At times, especially at night, they caused me great discomfort, due to incessant itching, and when I scratched them they itched more than ever. I dreaded going out among my friends.
"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the pimples started disappearing. I continued the treatment for about two and a half months and was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Eleanor Woolhouse, 525 W. Michigan Ave., Lansing, Mich.

"Now when you say 'they'?" said Ferdinand.

"Leonard," said Nan—"Robert Leonard and Rosamund."

"Robert has got a topping alibi. It's a good seven miles from Croyston to Weare, and his car was in Jeremiah Brown's garage with the cylinder head off. I like to know about things, so I collected that."

"He could hire a car."

"Not in Croyston."

"He might have borrowed one," said Nan.

"Whom would he borrow it from? Who's he going to give himself away to by borrowing their car to do the meanest sort of criminal job?"

"Rosamund," said Nan.

Ferdinand darted a sideways glance at her. He saw a pale, composed profile, lips colorless but firm, hands folded. He nodded. The car was moving slowly between the high banks of a lane.

"She certainly was alone in the house—Tetterleys away, servants in a separate wing. But then, I did a bit of searching round when you were paying your call. I had a nice talk with the second chauffeur. I said I thought I'd seen Miss Rosamound's car in Croyston Tuesday night, and he said she hadn't been out. He stuck to that, and what's more, he said he could prove it.

"For one thing, he'd cleaned the car that afternoon, and it certainly hadn't been out in the dust; and for another, he'd filled it up with oil and gasoline, and next day when Miss Carew went out he had a look at the gauge, and full up she was."

"Perhaps he wasn't telling the truth," said Nan.

"In my opinion he was."

"It isn't difficult to fill up again," said Nan—"and I expect Rosamund knows how to clean a car. Don't you see—" she lifted one hand and struck the other with it—"don't you see that that clean car and that full gasoline tank were her alibi? You haven't got an alibi for Tuesday night, and neither have I. Why have she and Robert Leonard got such beautiful alibis?"

Ferdinand drove on without speaking.

"You think she got Jervis to come away with her?"

"I don't know. She could have brought Robert Leonard from Croyston."

"And when she'd brought him what was he going to do? Jervis didn't like either of them well enough to go promenading around with them in the middle of the night. No—that's something I don't see."

"He's gone," said Nan. "Someone got him to go."

Ferdinand did not answer this at all. In spite of himself he was thinking of a warm, dark sea, with the moon going down in the west and the first gold flame of the dawn brightening the east. He could see the water and a black moving speck which was Jervis' head. And then the speck was gone, and he could only see the wide grey sweep of the water.

The day dragged on its way, and with every hour it grew hotter. By 5 o'clock the sun had almost disappeared behind a thick haze. It was as if the very fierceness and heat of its burning had sent out a shrouding veil of smoke. Under it the sea was oily and lead-colored.

Ferdinand had gone into Croyston. He had made up his mind that if Jervis had neither written nor returned by next morning, they must go to the police. Beneath the surface of his thoughts there floated an uneasy doubt as to whether they had not already delayed too long.

Nan stayed in the house. She had the feeling that something might happen at any moment. Impossible to move from the spot which might be the scene of this happening.

She stayed in the library. There was a telephone there, and she was waiting for the bell to ring. It might ring now, while she was over by the window, or now when she had turned and almost reached the door. A few quick steps would bring her close enough to snatch up the receiver, and then she would hear Jervis' voice.

She never got beyond that first sound of his voice. He had not to explain why he had gone away; he had only to be there—a living voice. It did not matter at all what the voice said—no, it didn't matter at all.

She paced the room with an even step. One might not have guessed, watching her, that every step, every moment ticked out by the clock on the mantel, was torture to her.

For Nan, way inside herself, knew Jervis would have returned if he could.

To Be Continued.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Wynne Tells of the Strange Signal by Which the Rider of the Horse with the Muffled Feet Gained Admission to the Kidnaper's Retreat.

RONALD'S boyish voice was so earnest, so filled with real terror as he told of the impression he had experienced that Marion was calling him, that I think more than one of the men shared my eerie little feeling of there being "more things in heaven and earth" than can be solved by ordinary processes. Had the boy's great love for her enabled him to feel some imminent danger menacing her, even while her rescuers gathered outside her prison?

Ronald Is Forgiven

Whatever our impressions, there was not one of us who did not give Ronald's revelation the tribute of tense, respectful silence for a few seconds after he had finished; then Harry Underwood put up an affectionate hand upon the boy's shoulder.

"I had you wrong a minute ago, Ronald," he said heartily. "I thought you had beat it, even though your mother needed you. You've done the right thing, but let's hope you're all wrong and Marion doesn't need you in any especial way. Now you'd better go over there with Brock, and he'll show you how to handle some of the little things we may need tonight."

A Free Agent

"Would it matter very much, sir," Ronald said diffidently, but with a note of stubborn decision in his voice, "if I just stayed alone, without anything especial to do? You see, you didn't expect me, so you haven't planned for me, and the reason I'm here is so as to be able to get to Marion, if she needs me and I can find out where she is. If I were over there with Mr. Brock, it would be just the same as if I were a soldier, wouldn't it? No matter what happened, or how much I wanted to go to her, I'd have to stay where I was told, wouldn't I?"

"You'll stay where—" Harry Underwood began as explosively as was consistent with a voice kept to a pitch inaudible outside the ring of trees. Then he checked himself.

"I don't know," he began again, after a second or two. "You probably wouldn't be any good to Brock, anyway, all wrought up as you are. I guess you might as well stay right here with Mrs. Graham and Mary. When we get the girls out we're going to rush 'em right over here, anyway; and if in the meantime there comes any justification of our premonition, you'll be in a place where you can get away.

"But, mind you—no gumming up the works! Any stunt you can do by yourself away from the rest of us is one thing, but for you to go up to the house, unless with the rest of us—that's out, no matter if you hear Marion calling for you in reality instead of in illusion. And another thing. Even if we're not here, don't you go careering off by yourself, unless Mrs. Madge here tells you it's O. K."

"Very well, sir," Ronald said submissively, and Mr. Underwood clapped him on the shoulder again.

"That's the ticket," he said. "Now, the next thing—"

Wynne Reports

But he did not tell us then what the next thing was. From the other side of the little tree-circled glade—the side which, I had learned, was nearest the farmhouse where the girls were imprisoned—there came stealthy sounds as of something creeping, and the next second Wynne raised himself from a crawling posture and advanced toward us.

Hugh Grantland and Harry Underwood rushed across the little enclosure to him, and as if by one consent the rest of us followed, gathering closely around that we might hear his report upon the task which had been entrusted to him—that of trailing the horseman who had muffled the hoofs of his steed.

"Well?" Major Grantland and Mr. Underwood spoke the word together.

"He's up at the shack," Wynne said, he and the horse too."

"Are you sure?"

"Am I sure?" There was offended dignity in Wynne's voice. "I wish I was as sure of getting through the pearly gates. I got so near that I was afraid the guy would hear me breathe, but he was so bent on what he was doing that he wasn't paying any attention to anything else.

Is It Charles Owen?

"He tied the horse to a tree outside the house, and then he went to the door of the house and mewed like a cat three times. If I hadn't been looking for him to pull some stunt like that, and if somebody hadn't opened the door to him as soon as they heard him, I wouldn't have believed it wasn't a real animal."

"Then the man on horseback is now inside the house, and his horse tied outside," Hugh said thoughtfully. "He must be Charles Owen. Don't you think it clicks with Lee Chow's report?"

GRIFFITH MAY TAKE OVER PILOT'S JOB AT HELM OF SENATORS

Owner of Washington Team Undecided on Team Manager for Next Season.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6—Clark Griffith—the "old fox" who piloted the Washington Senators from 1912 to 1920—may appear next year in the dual role of owner and manager of the capital's American league baseball team.

It depends, Griffith said last night, on whether he can get the man he wants to succeed Walter Johnson, let out this week after four years as manager.

Asked about filling the managerial shoes himself, Griffith said:

"Only if I am unable to find the man I want will I take over the management myself."

Griffith declined to comment further.

Interest of capital fans was divided between speculation over Johnson's successor and where Johnson, their idol, would go.

Persistent reports he might become manager of the Baltimore Orioles in the International league, apparently were unfounded, as Charles H. Knapp, president of that club, said in Baltimore he was not considering him.

Griffith, who came to Washington as manager in 1912, built up a reputation as a smart swapper and developer of material. He retired from an active role in 1920, when he had acquired a controlling interest in the team.

LaCROSSE, MAGGARD TOP FIGHT PROGRAM

Hard Punching Lightheavies Feature Boxing Card at Shovel Gym Saturday Night.

Professional leather slingers will in several months Saturday night invade Marion for the first time of this week as Jimmy County promotes a 30-round boxing show at the Marion Steam Shovel gymnasium. County has lined up an imposing array of fighting talent with which he hopes to put on a rousing series of battles as a sort of "post season" to the Grotto convention which will close here on that night. County has named 9 p. m. as the starting time of his show, just one half hour after the big parade has marked the official termination of the Grotto get-together.

Pete LaCrosse, a scowling Cherokee Indian from Fort Wayne, Ind., and Ralph (Smoky) Maggard, who claims Covington, Ky., as his home hallfwich, are the headliners of the card. Besides these two headliners, County has lined up 10 other fighters, including out-of-towners and home town products.

LaCrosse and Maggard come here without any local reputation but they have made quite a name for themselves in national competition. LaCrosse has fought some of the outstanding boys in the light heavyweight division and is rated high in the national ratings. He is reputed to pack a terrific wallop in either hand.

His opponent, Maggard, comes here rated equally as high as LaCrosse. He has already beaten LaCrosse once, turning the trick by the narrowest of margins in a 10-round duel only a short time ago. However, LaCrosse figures to have no worse than an even chance of turning the tables as they meet here Saturday inasmuch as the former fight was nip and tuck all the way and the decision was considered by many as pretty much of a gift to Maggard.

Charles White of Cincinnati and Moan Baumgartner of Ft. Wayne will clash in the eight-round semi-final. They are 145-pounders. Young Mondue of Marion and Billy Burke of Cincinnati, who will weigh in at 124, are billed for a six-round fracas. Other bouts will match Frankie Blue of Marion and Tony Accetto of Muncie, Ind.; Slip Eymon of Marion and Harold Burnsides of Martel and Young Hochstetler and Battling Wilson of Marion. All the last three fights will go four rounds.

On paper the card in general looks like one of the best lined up for Marion fistic fans in a long time.

GOLFERS OPEN RUSH FOR PRIZE MONEY IN LINKS TOURNAMENTS

$65,000 To Be Distributed in Various Fall and Winter Meets.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 6—Golf's fall and winter gold rush opens at St. Louis tomorrow with the prospect of a slight reduction in prize money but as many or more tournaments than a year ago.

In outlining the tentative winter campaign, Albert R. Gates, business administrator of the Professional Golfers' association of America, said that approximately $65,000 would be distributed in about 29 tournaments, all but four of which have been definitely set.

"The winter campaign will open tomorrow with the playing of the St. Louis Open where prizes totaling $2,500 will be paid the winners," he said. "The players will swing down the Atlantic coast in November, playing in the $2,500 national capital city open at Washington, the $2,500 mid-south open at Pinehurst, and the $10,000 Coral Gables-Baltimore competition at Miami.

"From Miami, the caravan will head for the Pacific coast where there will be more than a month of steady competition. The Pacific coast season will open Dec. 7, with the national match play open championship at San Francisco. That tournament will be followed by the $4,000 Pasadena open, Dec. 16; the $3,000 Glendale open Dec. 24-26; the $2,000 Santa Monica pro-amateur, Dec. 30-Jan. 3, and the Los Angeles open, Jan. 7-9. Agua Caliente will again stage its championship, Jan. 11-14, and will offer the largest purse of the Pacific coast season."

From the Mexican resort, the players will go to Phoenix, for the Arizona open and along the gulf coast to Florida for the usual February and March fixtures, closing the campaign with the North and South open at Pinehurst, N. C.

CHICAGO ELEVEN OFF FOR INTERSECTIONAL CONFLICT WITH YALE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 6—A snowy thatched old warrior in his "dangerous seventies" packed his suitcase today, and set out for the greatest adventure of his sporting life.

It was Amos Alonzo Stagg bound for New Haven, Conn., and a football tussle with his alma mater, Yale. With him was perhaps his best University of Chicago football team since 1924, a squad of 31 hustling huskies.

Frequent visits to the Yale campus have been one of Coach Stagg's luxuries in the past 42 years, but it has been 34 years since he has seen a Yale football team in action at New Haven. But he'll make up for that with a real close up Saturday as he sends his team against the blue of Old Eli.

Only one disturbing note was heard. That was the last minute ruling that Cecil Storey, sophomore fullback, was ineligible because of his studies. But the rest of the team was in splendid physical condition and ready to fight 'a last ditch of battle.

The three shareholders of the Big Ten championship in 1931, also were ready for important engagements that will all but shove one or two of them out of the current title struggle Saturday. They were Michigan and Northwestern, which meet at Ann Arbor, and Purdue, which tangles with Minnesota at Minneapolis.

Ubl's injury was the big topic of discussion in most Big Ten camps as they prepared for Saturday's games. Many coaches, afraid of practice injuries, cut scrimmage to a minimum.

CONDITION OF UBL SLIGHTLY BETTER

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 6—Friends of Myron Ubl, University of Minnesota athlete, were heartened today by reports of improvement in his condition, even though it was slight.

His physician, however, said that while the change was a favorable sign it was "not enough to give one too much hope" for Ubl, football player, who was injured in practice, and whose cold developed into pneumonia, with complications to make his condition serious.

Golfers Name Heads.

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 6—The Ohio Professional Golfers' association, meeting here, elected Charley Lorms of Columbus, president, Lloyd Cuthkelson of Cleveland, vice president; and Steve Zappe of Springfield, secretary-treasurer.

Coach Puts Crimp in Air Activities of Orv Mohler

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 6—The aerial game is fine business in football, opines Coach Howard Jones, but outside Bovard field on the University of Southern California campus, it's all off.

That is what Orville Mohler and Captain Ray Brown, two of the Trojans' best players, were emphatically informed today by the head man, after their close scrape with death or injury at San Bernardino yesterday when the airplane Mohler was piloting crashed from an altitude of 100 feet.

Mohler, a licensed pilot and a senior in aeronautic engineering at Southern California, figured he might get in a little laboratory work by keeping a speaking engagement at the San Bernardino Valley Union junior college via the air. The quarterback and Brown, a tackle, kept the engagement, but almost missed regular afternoon practice.

Mohler lifted the plane from the Tri-City airport, but the motor refused to respond when he attempted to climb over a clump of trees. He swerved the craft slightly, and dipped a bit in order to collect momentum for another climb, but the plane refused to take, and nosed to the ground. Mohler cut off the motor and flattened out the craft just before it hit. The plane bounced, struck again and nosed over—a wreck.

Brown and Mohler crawled out of the wreckage, without a scratch, and hurried back to Los Angeles, by automobile.

TRIUMPH OF BEARS BRINGS LONG PROTEST

Minneapolis Loses to Newark Following Dispute Over Decision of Umpire.

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 6—A first class problem was referred to the stove league today as Newark went into the sixth game of the little world's series needing only one victory to win the annual duel between the International league and the American Association.

Through the stove league, echoes of yesterday's 12 to 9 victory for Newark are bound to roll for it marked the longest dispute in the history of the series, instituted in 1917.

There was a forty-minute argument on the field on a question which decided the game and this dispute was carried over into a hot debate lasting more than two hours before the advisory commission, which split on the most point.

In the first half of the ninth with the score 8 to 8 and two Bear batters out, Harry Rice, Miller center fielder, dashed toward short in an effort to catch a low fly from the bat of Johnny Neun, Newark first baseman.

Rice made what amounted to a flying tackle, rolled over several times and came up with the ball in his hands. Before he arose Jack Saltgaver, Bear second sacker, ran home from third.

Umpire Johnston at third ruled that Rice caught the ball, that Neun was out and refused to allow Saltgaver to be listed as having scored. The Millers retired from the field and the Bears clustered around the umpires.

The last decision hoisted Newark and with a notice of protest, the Millers resumed play with Red Rolfe blasting the first pitch by Elam Van Gilder over the right field fence for a home run scoring two ahead of him. The Millers scored only once in their half.

Bowling Statistics

Henry High's Radio shop bowling combination last night turned in the three-game high in the Recreation league pin competition and swept the three game series with Richman's Clothes. High's pin masters upset a total of 2,683 staples in the three starts.

Titus of the May Jewelry five stole the individual honors last night with a score of 243 for a single game. Mitchell of the No. 2 Gas company five was second with a 237 mark. Harry Neuman of the American Legion had the best three-game total with 580.

WHEAT PRICES AGAIN LOWER

Accumulation of Overnight Selling Orders Chiefly Responsible for Drop.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 6—Wheat prices today touched the lowest level since July 26. An accumulation of overnight selling orders was chiefly responsible. Opening ½@¾ down, wheat afterward held near the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to ½ lower and later rallied.

Ready absorption of wheat offerings on the early setback of prices brought about recoveries to around yesterday's finish. On the upturn, however, buyers became scarce, and the market again tended to sag. Simultaneous with the rally, rumors were current that a deal had been definitely closed by which China would purchase 15,000,000 bushels of wheat on credit, with Reconstruction Finance corporation backing.

An Argentine government report estimated the wheat area of Argentina this season as almost 700,000 acres more than the official preliminary forecast and 2,448,000 acres more than in 1931. Most of the increased seeding though as compared with a preliminary estimate has been lost to locust damage. Relatively large shipments of wheat from Russia, 1,000,000 bushels in the last week, were also announced. Winnipeg advances told of slow and rain likely to slow up rural deliveries of grain. Corn and oats paralleled wheat market action, with May corn temporarily outdoing the season's low price record.

Provisions developed firmness as a result of some buying for previous speculative sellers.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and rank and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, nasty oil, or, harsh, purgative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

Put they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a sick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. You feel rotten and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

In taking those pure, all CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain vegetable ingredients, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't look for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Refuse substitutes. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from muscular pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, croup and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengue (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. It is all it asks down and accepts the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Use enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengue (spelled "Ben-Gay" in English). Used in many analgesic liniments, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real relief.

CITY HEALTH BOARD MEETS

Report Shows Welfare Work Cost Marion $7,462 in September.

The care of the city's needy cost the city $7,462 during the month of September, according to a report submitted by Relief Commissioner C. M. Tobin to the city board of health yesterday afternoon. In addition to the $7,462 the city also issued 2,709 sacks of government flour. There were 3,467 orders for groceries issued during the month.

Health Commissioner Dr. Kenneth D. Smith's report showed 146 house and 121 office calls, five night calls, one emergency and three confinements during the month in addition to 42 house and 25 office calls and two confinement cases reported by Dr. Floyd Yeager who served as city physician from Sept. 8 to 13 during the illness of Dr. Smith.

Notifiable diseases during the month were reported by Dr. Smith as two cases of tuberculosis and one each of chickenpox, scarlet fever, typhoid fever and whooping cough. The physician also reported the collection of seven samples of water, 11 consultations, the examination of seven school children, 10 general investigations and two school visits.

Announcement of the starting of the school nursing program for the year, on Sept. 26, was made in a report of public health nursing made to the board by Supervisor of Nurses Miss Mary Brenneman. Her report also showed a total of 443 visits by nurses during September.

Activities of City Nurse Miss Mabel Hastings during September included 338 visits according to her report. Included in the visits were 177 to postpartum and newborn cases, 113 to give bedside care, 11 in infant welfare work and 17 home visits in behalf of school children.

Sixty inspections were made by Milk and Meat Inspector Dr. J. T. Gruber during the month. Included in the list were 30 general inspections, 11 inspections of meat markets, nine farm inspections, eight milk plant inspections and the inspection of two bottling plants.

PICTURE SPONSORED BY CHORUS OPENS

Lecture-Recital Club Group Brings "Congorilla" to Ohio.

"Congorilla" differs vastly from other adventure pictures that have been made. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson have captured comedy in central Africa with their camera and talking equipment. At no point in the picture is there horror. Many of the shots are unusual and breath taking but there is nothing to race chills up and down the spectator's back.

The picture will show through Saturday at the Ohio sponsored by the chorus of the Marion Lecture Recital club.

There is outright comedy when two pygmies try to light cigars and when the pet baby chimpanzee and baby gorilla of the safari are given baths. The picture doesn't lag in interest at any point. The Johnsons sought to make an entertaining picture and succeeded. The pygmies are especially interesting, and the Johnsons stayed in the village long enough to get pictures of a native wedding. The weird songs, dances and tribal rites are all brought to the screen in a perfect recording of sound and the gibberish that is the pygmies' talking.

The children will enjoy this picture fully as much as the adults. On the bill are a newsreel, a short subject on Japanese whaling and a good music-comedy.

The Campaign Puzzle

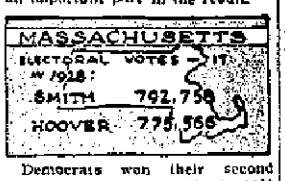
Study Past State-by-State Votes in Making Your Forecast

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth of a series of articles showing how states voted in the 1928 presidential election and pointing out developments since.

* * *

Massachusetts' vote for Alfred E. Smith in 1928 was its first vote for a Democratic candidate since 1912, and ran counter to a Republicanism which had been almost unquestioned until recent years.

Smith and his views on prohibition appealed to large elements in the state, and were credited with an important part in the result.



Democrats won their second United States senatorship in 1930 when Marcus A. Coolidge defeated William M. Butler, former national Republican committeeman by a vote of 651,939 to 539,226. In the same year Joseph B. Ely (D.) who had the campaign support of Alfred E. Smith defeated Frank G. Allen (R.) for governor, 606,902 to 580,238.

Massachusetts' delegation to the Democratic national convention this year voted solidaly for Smith to the end. Republican leaders have professed a belief that many Democratic votes, disaffected by the outcome, may swing to Hoover.

Prohibition has been a major issue in the current campaign. Economic recovery also has been widely debated.

Massachusetts has 17 electoral votes this year, instead of its former 18.

* * *

Idaho has cast its electoral votes for the Republican presidential candidate five times in the last 16 elections. Twice its votes went to Bryan and twice to Wilson. In 1892 its votes went to the People's party's candidate.

In the state elections of 1930, C. Ben Ross (D) was elected over John McMurray (R) by a vote of 73,896 to 55,002. He was the state's first Democratic governor in a decade, but the significance of the result was clouded by the fact that McMurray's nomination in party convention caused wide dissent, friends of Byron Defenbach claiming he was the party's real choice.

In the same year Idaho reelected Senator William E. Borah (R) by a vote of 94,925 to 36,102 for Joseph M. Tyler (D), and reelected its two Republican representatives by majorities of 16,000 and 19,000 respectively.

Discussion of farm relief and banking programs of the two candidates apparently has overshadowed the prohibition issue in the current campaign. Idaho has usually been considered strongly dry and Senator Borah announced early in the current campaign his refusal to support the Republican prohibition plank.

Idaho has four electoral votes.

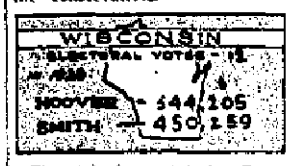
Wisconsin generally is regarded as a "normally" Republican state, but since the days of the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette Republicanism within the state has been divided between "progressive" or "LaFollette" Republicans and the "conservatives."



The state has not had a Democratic governor since 1891. In recent years Wisconsin has failed but twice to give its vote to Republican presidential candidates, voting for Woodrow Wilson in 1912 and for Senator LaFollette in 1924.

The LaFollette faction has been consistently at odds with Republican national administrations, and in 1928 gave its indorsement to Alfred E. Smith. Prohibition was a leading issue in the campaign of that year, the progressives favoring repeal.

Forecasts of Wisconsin's vote in the coming national election were complicated by the recent primaries, in which former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, conservative, defeated Governor Philip F. LaFollette for renomination by a heavy majority.

Senator John J. Blaine, running on the LaFollette ticket, was defeated by John E. Chapple, conservative editor.

Wisconsin has 12 electoral votes this year, instead of its former 13.

...ULSH INSURANCE CASE IS SETTLED

Litigants Agree on 50 Per Cent Payment, Halted by Suicide Clause.

An action of Frank G. Ulsh against the Union Central Life Insurance Co. to collect a disputed $5,000 policy on the life of Clarence Ulsh, former Marion county farmer, has been settled, according to a journal entry in common pleas court.

Ulsh, wounded by W. H. Holverstott the uncle of his wife, after a quarrel, more than a year ago, tried to hang himself in a nearby barn after fatally wounding his wife and Mr. Holverstott. His body was found suspended by a rope but it was impossible to learn whether the bullet wound or the hanging had caused his death.

Because of a suicide clause in the insurance policy the cause of death was an important question. It was unofficially reported that the settlement was for 50 per cent of the policy. The law firm of Clark & Arter represented the insurance company and Frank Wiedemann was counsel for Ulsh.

Claim Set Up

The Eastern Tube & Tool Co. filed an answer and cross petition in common pleas court yesterday setting up a $500 mortgage note as a claim against property of W. W. Bodley in the action of Bodley against himself as administrator of the estate of Estella Mae Bodley. The law firm of Clark & Arter is counsel for the tube and tool company.

Licenses Issued

Licenses to marry were issued in probate court yesterday to Harold A. Stout, a telegraph company employe of Chicago, and Iva M. Zieg of Marion, and to Francis J. Sanderson, a laborer, of 482 Davids street, and Agnes Marshall of 546 Toledo avenue.

Suit Dismissed

A suit brought by the City of Marion against Lawrence K. McGinnis and Florence McGinnis to collect an account for the City hospital has been dismissed from common pleas court. The account was disputed, McGinnis contending that Mrs. McGinnis did not receive proper care at the hospital and that she contracted pneumonia because of negligence on the part of hospital employes.

The Presidential Message.

President Hoover returned to Washington from his first campaign tour to the corn belt cheered by vigorous manifestations of support for the policies he has initiated and maintained during his difficult term of office. He had spoken honestly and at length concerning national problems—he had made an appeal to sound common sense that likes to deal with facts—and his reward was an enthusiastic response.

It was more than a campaign speech that President Hoover delivered at Des Moines. No one, analyzing its tone and content, can escape realization that it was a presidential message to the nation. Four years ago Mr. Hoover was elected to the highest office this government has to offer. Fate decreed that his term was to be one of the most difficult in history. His bid for reelection necessarily consists of his record. More than ordinarily, recapitulation is in order.

The details of President Hoover's administrative acts would fill many books. His brief summary of the more important of them, given at Des Moines, challenged the intelligence and attention of his listeners. Yet, it is only through them that measurement of the man is possible. It is the task of Mr. Hoover's friends and the Republican party to challenge the nation's intelligence repeatedly before election day. Never was there greater need for straight thinking; never was there greater danger to angry emotionalism such as is cropping out in this presidential contest.

Mr. Hoover understands the mood of voters this year. He comprehends and sympathizes with their dissatisfaction. He knows that many of them are advocating a change of administration, not because they believe it would do any good, but because they believe things couldn't be any worse. Mr. Hoover defied those who have fallen into such a despairing belief. Without any use of soft phrases, he showed them how things could have been worse—how they can become worse, without diligent exercise of clear thinking.

By listening to counsels of despair, by yielding to the pressure of wild-eyed legislators running loose in congress, by hesitation in any one of a number of places, the administration could have incurred responsibility for perils greater than any of those it has avoided or minimized by holding steadfastly to a sane course. At Des Moines, President Hoover recalled some of the dangerous legislation produced by the Democrat-controlled house. He pointed out the opposition's indefensible point—its control by unsound leadership. His veto stood between this menace and the national welfare. He is amply justified in pointing out his use of the veto power to protect his countrymen.

Throughout his speech, particularly in those passages dealing with agricultural problems, he demonstrated an advantage which the Democratic candidate does not possess. Mr. Hoover speaks in terms of reality. He compares reality with what is possible, not with misleading promises to be kept by untried experiments. He can and does point to accomplishments, not proposals. Not a spellbinder, not a good campaigner, in the ordinary sense of the phrase, he possesses, nevertheless, an ability that surpasses those in value. His words have the ring of sincerity.

His Des Moines speech was awaited with intense interest by his friends and enemies alike. As was the case when his speech accepting the nomination was delivered, there was apprehension lest expectation outrun realization. But, as in the former case, Mr. Hoover exceeded expectations. He cheered all those who have believed steadfastly that his record entitles him to a second term. From the ranks of those whose dissatisfaction with conditions has caused them to be unfairly critical he drew a vast number who needed only the stimulus of an honest comparison of the candidates to convince them that Herbert Hoover's record entitles him to their support.

Working Without Pay.

It is a question which is being wedged harder by Chicago's tax muddle, the school teachers or the city. Their discomfort probably is mutual and equal.

The teachers, 14,000 of them, are tired of working without pay. They have demanded that the schools be closed, in which case they would have neither work nor the promise of pay.

Chicago taxpayers, on the other hand, are tired of paying without results. As long as teachers were willing to work without pay, taxpayers could think of them as incidental sacrifices to what amounts in its effect to a taxpayers' revolt.

The teachers, while there was some hope of being paid, were better off working than they would have been idle. That hope has been a fortunate thing for Chicago parents. It is exhausted now, unfortunately.

If the teachers can succeed in getting schools closed by order of the board of education, they will have a clear case. To preserve their status they dare not strike. By virtue of their compactness as a group, they should be able to show Chicago what it means to be without a public school system by a more direct method.

As New York City's municipal government has become a national symbol of the trials of civic administration, Chicago's unpaid school teachers have become the symbols of the trials of public education. It is inconceivable that the second largest city should be without schools, but it also is inconceivable that thousands of school teachers should work without pay to continue that system. Mayor Anton Cermak will have to do some of his best scurrying to the money lenders—if he can find any.

Credit Pumper.

If release of credit has failed to restore normal circulation in the arteries of business, if it has failed to warm up certain impoverished areas of the body of society, the Reconstruction Finance Corp. mastodonic credit pumper can not be blamed. In the first seven months of its existence, up to the first of this month, it has dispersed approximately one-third of the $3,800,000,000 given over to its power.

Among recipients of its life maintaining loans are a vast number of banks and trust companies, representing millions of American citizens such as the critical Mr. Roosevelt calls "forgotten men." Whatever the corporation has not been able to do, it has blocked off an advance by the depression that was crushing national morale. It has stabilized the banking system, with the help of other remedial legislation.

It has loaned money to building and loan associations, mortgage loan companies, livestock credit corporations, agricultural credit corporations and federal land banks. Railroad companies have loaned upon it heavily. In an uncertain credit structure it has stood firmly during its brief existence—the hope and salvation of many an organization which, but for its help, would have added to the total of economic ruin left in the path of depression.

Resources it has made available to states, including several Ohio communities, have relieved suffering directly. But, in the mass they have done and can do nothing to establish better conditions. The primary function of the corporation, as implied in its title, is reconstruction.

No nation ever tried such a gigantic experiment in credit pumping before. No nation ever had enough wealth at the command of its government to launch such a project. When the depression period from which the sobered world is emerging has faded to a memory, the Reconstruction Finance Corp. undoubtedly will be recognized as an outstanding achievement in humanity's manipulation of resources for the common welfare.

Size Counts.

More Americans are able to parade the superiority bestowed by residence in a metropolis than English, Germans, Russians or Japanese. Among the world's seven largest cities are New York and Chicago. If the list were to be doubled in length, Philadelphia and Detroit might find places.

The only surprise in the revised standing of the largest cities in the advance of Tokyo to third place, close behind New York. Tokyo has done what many an American city, thirsty for distinction, would have liked to do before the 1930 census. It swallowed its suburbs, thereby increasing its population by millions and its area some eight times.

London is still in first place, but New Yorkers never can be convinced by mere figures that they do not live in the world's largest city. They claim an unofficial population of more than 12,000,000 people, meaning inhabitants in the city's natural trading area. Officially, they can claim less than 7,000,000 residents.

So much for size. As long as human beings find it desirable and advantageous to cluster together it will be important to know which particular cluster contains the most separate parts. For reasons that are vague the parts, themselves, derive real satisfaction from knowing they are part of the largest, second largest, third largest and so on down the list.

Why doesn't some one start at the other end and give distinction to residents of the smallest, second smallest and third smallest villages in the world? It wouldn't mean anything, but it would be something on which a boast could be based, which seems to be the main purpose of comparing community populations.

PULPIT OR MONKEY CAGE?

Churches, whether they be large or small, are majestic temples dedicated to the worship and glorification of God. Even those individuals who are on the outside and never enter recognize them as such and accord them reverence and respect. There is a sacred, quiet atmosphere about the church which helps fortify the faith of man that through it he can come in touch with a Supreme Power and gain strength for his life's activities.

Most of the leaders, who have been consecrated to the serious duty of directing and counseling, have the proper conception of their task, and conduct their work with befitting dignity. Occasionally, however, a mistake is made, and some one with a combined clown and publicity complex gets into the pulpit. Their vaudeville performances may be diverting, but they are not at all in keeping with either the traditions or purposes of the church.

A glaring instance of this kind has just been revealed in Toledo, where a Presbyterian pastor has gone modern to get out the evening crowds. A jazz orchestra, borrowed from a night club, profanes the sacred halls of the church with music designed to appeal to the flesh. Many of the church members have been offended, and stayed away.

Folks who come to church to be entertained are no better for so doing. While the pastor's vanity is being flattered, souls are starving for the Word which is life. The church is founded upon a rock, and there is no need for it sliding into the gutter. A dying man would find little solace in having a crooner stand by his bedside singing "Boop-a-Doop." The church has a more important mission in the world than to enshrine Texas Guinan as a saint.—Ohio State Journal.

Guard Against Athlete's Foot.

Athlete's foot is one of the most common of the skin ailments. The doctors, always seeking big words, call it epidermophytosis, but the disease is better known as ringworm. It is an infection caused by a parasite, and it may involve any part of the body.

The first sign of ringworm is a flat, reddish spot on the skin. This enlarges, becomes paler in color in the center and forms the typical circular appearance. The ring is elevated, reddened and scaly, its outer border more pronounced and its inner border fading toward the center. The middle of the ring is pale, pinkish, or it may be the color of the skin. The first ring persists for several days or even weeks before it disappears, then the trouble reappears elsewhere on the body.

When ringworm involves the feet it is spoken of as "athlete's foot," and this form of ringworm has become increasingly common within recent years.

It is a grave mistake to neglect any form of ringworm. More and more serious infection may result from improper treatment. The afflicted person becomes extremely ill. He may have chills, and a fever running as high as one hundred and four degrees. In some cases, the foot infection may spread to the leg, involving the glands and skin of the body.

Athlete's foot is difficult to avoid, but if everyone knew how to prevent it the disease would not be as prevalent as it is today. Some authorities maintain that a shallow pool filled with a special antiseptic should be used after leaving any public swimming pool or shower.

Since this disease is usually contracted at bathing beaches, public pools and in gymnasiums, it is advised that no one walk about in these places without slippers. Proper sterilization of towels and bed sheets is important to prevent the spread of this infection.

When the disease is recognized, rapid cure can be obtained by the immediate application of the proper medicine, but a great deal of harm results from depending on home remedies. If you have contracted ringworm consult with your physician, and let him prescribe the necessary treatment.

Please bear in mind that ringworm is highly contagious. If you neglect it you are harming yourself and you may pass the infection to others. Protect yourself and your family by immediately receiving the proper and necessary treatment.—Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Public Opinion

RECOLLECTIONS.

Marion, O., Oct. 5, 1932

Editor Star:

Fifty-nine years ago today snow was four inches deep (south of Ada four miles). Laid on from Monday until Friday and then fine weather until November, about 15th or 20th. Then cold and blustery dry snow and remained cold all winter with continual snow, the last snow April 27th, 12 inches deep.

Hay was $20 a ton, corn $1 a bushel, wages for carpenters $2 per day, common labor $1 to $1.25, flour $5 a barrel, sugar 8 cents a pound, beef 5 to 10 cents, smoked ham 10 cents. Taxes on ordinary farm $25 to $30. Today same farm paying $75 to $100.—A. F. Day.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Although it's still early in the game and all that, not only Democrats but others have begun to speculate on whom Governor Roosevelt would pick as members of his official family should he win the presidency on November 8.

A recent Democratic bulletin discusses the question and gleefully points out how fortunate is Governor Roosevelt and the country in the quality of men who may be called to posts of high responsibility.

Some capital observers think they have picked the man Roosevelt would name secretary of state. He is Sumner Welles, wealthy one-time diplomat and specialist on Latin-American affairs. Welles has been a frequent visitor of the governor both at Albany and Hyde Park. Roosevelt, say the wiseacres, seeks his advice on foreign affairs.

Others think John W. Davis might get the No. 1 portfolio in a Roosevelt cabinet. Newton D. Baker is mentioned as also is Owen D. Young.

• • •

For secretary of the treasury, a Democratic chief executive would have two former holders of that portfolio to choose from. William G. McAdoo and Senator Glass of Virginia. Both were members of the Wilson cabinet.

Two prominent bankers—Melvin A. Traylor and Jackson Reynolds—also might come in for consideration for this post. Young's name also is heard again.

For attorney general many names are put forward in the speculation. There's Davis again, admittedly one of the leading lawyers of the country. Guy A. Thompson, president of the American Bar association, also is mentioned as also is Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana.

The senate has its share of cabinet possibilities. In addition to Glass and Wheeler, there are Hull of Tennessee, Walsh of Montana and Wagner of New York. Wagner's interest in unemployment and labor problems as a whole might recommend him to Roosevelt as the man for secretary of labor.

• • •

The many Democratic governors who might grace a cabinet post also are mentioned. There's Ritchie of Maryland, Ely of Massachusetts, White of Ohio, Erickson of Montana, Woodring of Kansas and Dern of Utah, the man reported at one time to be Governor Roosevelt's choice as his running mate.

Then there are those in private life who might get a call to cabinet duty. James M. Cox of Ohio is one. Bernard M. Baruch, of New York, is another.

Enthusiastic Democrats assert that no party in recent history has had such potential cabinet material as they have. Roosevelt's problem, they contend, would be in making the choice among so many who are able.

BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE

THE PUPPET CHILD

Mary Chadwick, visiting a kindergarten in London which was attended by children from underprivileged homes, observed that many of them, when they first came, sat about like so many little wax figures.

The children did not speak unless they were spoken to. They had no idea of how to play with the materials lying accessible on every hand. They did not know how to become acquainted. They seemed only half alive. Yet many of them were equipped with a complete set of manners which they used with automatic precision.

The mothers of all these children had much hard work to do. For them the ideal behavior in their children meant that which gave them the least trouble. Hence they had trained them to sit still, keep still and keep clean.

The mothers had no time to talk with the children or tell them stories and the children's painfully small vocabularies and general inarticulateness showed how great can be the effect of such deprivation.

But manners they had. These their mothers had taken pains to teach them. An impolite child reflects no credit upon the status of his family, they felt, and so these children had been taught all the forms of courtesy while their bodies had been put in strait jackets and their minds had been allowed to go undeveloped.

The picture is an extreme one but perhaps not without significance. Most parents tend to prevent their children doing things that annoy them without further though of what step those things might represent in development.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBREATH

PANEGYRIC ON THE SCIOTO.

Caleb Atwater in his Ohio history gave an interesting Indian derivation of the name of the Scioto river. He says it is the English spelling of the Indian name for the river See-yon-toh, meaning "Long Legs," and it has reference to the many tributaries that this river has, from Paint creek north.

It was Atwater's home through all his later life and he may be excused for going to the limit in praising the Scioto valley in his description. His history was published at Cincinnati in 1838.

It was, he said in his heyday, "a perfect paradise — waving with grass and grain as far as the eye can see. The country is animated by a people living either in beautiful towns or along the roadside on farms.

"From Columbus downward the traveler almost everywhere sees the canal with its boats; he hears the sound of their horns, and sees the Scioto winding its way along to the Ohio river. This is the Scioto country, famed in all time since man dwelt on its surface, for its beauty and fertility.

"Nature already has done her part for this region, and man has done, is doing, and will continue to do his, to make it all that man can ever desire it to be, forever, a 'home, sweet home.'"

Europe Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

Paris, Oct. 6—The most impertinently brazen gyp for Americans in Paris is the over-publicized theatrical attraction—Follies Bergere. Gyp is too mild. It is a barbarian rout. The banditry begins at the box office where, if you ask for good seats, they blandly point to a speculator's coop across the street.

A group of Tarzans snatch your hat and cane immediately inside the door, no matter the protests. Then you idle through Robbers' Roost, an enormous salon with drinking tables and a brace of bars. Here program passers tell you they paid three francs each for programs. And naturally expect a pourbois.

So conscienceless calculating and insolent is it all you are in an indignant lather when you come to the ushers, most shameless brigandesses of the lot. A Frenchman bestows, at most a sou or 50 centimes—two cents—and receives a graciously purred "Merci, M'sieu!" But they spot Americans.

I bestowed two francs, a generous largesse, in the twitching palm of the huzzy who escorted us. She blocked our path to seats, demanding more. Gently I edged her to one side when my unworthy inclination was to kick out her teeth. Then she stood there in a fine rage delivering imprecations with machine gun rat-a-tat.

Naturally I was too hydrophobic to enjoy the show. Even if good, etc. But it was shoddy, disgustingly vulgar, stressing the stark nudity of the over-plump and featuring two skits with Lesbian and Sadist themes. At the entr' acte a swarm of cocottes descended to cadge drinks and make assignations.

After the play it was fun to watch the unbridled wantonness of cocottes, waiting to make pick-ups out front. They were in flamboyant gowns sleekly coiffed, extravagantly perfumed, daring. They simper in broken English. "You desiree madamoiselle for ze good time." Gendarmes shift capes and twirl comic white clubs indifferently. A healthy English boy escorting an elderly lady was besieged. In the awkward confusion of his years, he blushed furiously. But a villainess still pursued him across the street to his taxi.

• • •

Stepping into the background, I whispered to a group, pointing to Harry Silvey who was immaculate in full-dress splendor: "A rich American, very lonely and lo[st] the ladies!" In a flash the pack was in full cry. They surrounded him in a hyena half circle, tugging at his elbow, chirping flatteries and gushing all the oily [w]iles of the most venerable profession. I rescued him, and in a gusto of braggadocio, he shot a cuff and boasted: "Fellow, have I IT!"

• • •

At the Follies intermission they actually exploit a cooch-dance below stairs with all the frenzied weed-piping and tom-tomming of the circus. Also, there was something else I never noticed in theaters—men smoked pipes during the play. The audience was about ten per cent French—mostly wide-eyed provincials in town for a night out, or perhaps, a lonely tenderfoot from some Afghan frontier.

We dined tonight at Bouef a la Mode, occupying the same stand opposite Cardinal Richelieu's home in rue de Valois—how lilting rue de Valwah!—since 1792. A quaint spot, the dish of the house, naturally, beef a la mode, the viand it gave to gourmets in the 70's. It is dull but hallowed by patronage of Napoleon who used to go there during the days of the first Empire with the tragedian Talma. A three-cornered hat he left one night is on display under glass.

The blonde, fish-white and silver-voiced Erskine Gwynne is still a fair-haired boy in the Au-mediocre set. Depression stifled his flaming fajuleton. The Boulevardier, but has not cramped his abundance of joie de vivre. Wherever he goes—and he's on perpetual go—he's the little ray of sunshine.

I'm hep to Harry Silvey's French. He mixes it with German and Italian unconsciously. Today, for instance, he called to a garcon "Voulez vous apportez a package of shmerls?" Then added, "Ubermachen it snappy, bambino"—Copyright, 1932, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN BOWLAND.

SWEET AND "SCENT-IMENTAL."

Many an innocent man has mistaken an expensive, imported "scent" for sex-appeal or sentiment. Or gotten an alluring pomade confused with an alluring personality, when he kissed a girl's hair.

Nothing gets into the masculine imagination so surely and effectively as a subtle and delicate fragrance. Rouge, mascara and bare backs may catch a man's eye; but all down the ages, poets and lovers have sung of woman's fragrance. From the days when the girls went in for frankincense and myrrh, through the era of jasmine and lily-of-the-valley, to this day of psychological perfumes tagged with such odd names as "Look-into-my-eyes" or "Stolen Kisses" or "Teach-me-to-love," nothing has been so potent as perfume, to bowl a man over!

And now, according to a recent news item, the shops are trying the perfume lure on women. Silk stockings, lingerie, evening gowns and negligees are all to be deliciously scented, before they pass before prospective customer's eyes (or nose). And it is working beautifully! Women's noses are as susceptible as men's noses—and you can sell at least three pairs of perfumed stockings to one plain unperfumed pair.

There are some who remember the immortal Sarah Bernhardt, who retained her personal charm until she had passed 70, and who [has] never forgotten the heady incense which she always burned in any theater in which she was playing. It is said that the subtle, entrancing fragrance which gradually rose from the orchestra to the highest gallery had you dreaming poppy-dreams about the plain-featured but seductive Sarah, long before the curtain rolled up.

• • •

The association of ideas is a strange and marvelous thing. One whiff of a familiar perfume can make the man sitting opposite you think of moonlight, Venice, violins and another woman—all at the same time.

A woman going through a trunk in the attic may pull out an old dress or an old lace handkerchief, faintly fragrant of an old-fashioned perfume, and suddenly catch herself humming an old song and thinking of some man whom she has forgotten for 10 or 20 years.

A woman is like that. She can keep as many old loves tucked away in her subconscious mind as she has old hats or old shoes tucked away in her closet.

If the shops are going to scent the silk stockings, the gowns and the furs, we shall all either "go broke" or have to join the nudists in self-defense. We'll buy everything we smell!—Copyright, 1932, King's Feature Syndicates, Inc.)

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, Oct. 6, 1922.

Delegates to the national convention of the Ohio Association of Realtors at Toledo reported the real estate market throughout Ohio as unusually active and "Ohio industry humming."

The New York Giants defeated the Yankees in the third game of the World series, 3-0. Jones and Hoyt pitched for the Yanks and Scott for the Giants. Babe Ruth went hitless in three times at bat.

The Forest Lawn baseball team of Marion had just finished a very successful season and was recognized as the champion amateur team in this section of the state.

Newspapermen, cameramen and others who had been scouring the woods near Mt. Victory in quest of two lions gave up the hunt and departed, apparently having decided that the lions, if there had been any, had gone to a different locality.

Stephen Setterfield, 35, of near Waldo, was caught in a cave-in while excavating for a culvert near Green Camp and was instantly killed.

Misses Virginia Wilson and Ardell Bohler were hostesses at a masquerade party on the lawn of the Bohler home on East Church street.

Mrs. Perry Carrier was hostess to members of the C. D. & M. Ladies' club at her home on Woodrow avenue.

Jacob F. Fox, 81, Civil War veteran, died at his home five miles northwest of Prospect street.

All of the preceding year's officers, headed by Mrs. A. O. Jennings as president, who had held the office for 10 years, were reelected at the closing session of the Marion County W. C. T. U. annual convention.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Sunday, Oct. 6, 1912.

New York was reported to be "baseball mad" with fans already starting to line up at the ticket booths of the Polo grounds in New York for the opening game of the World series between the Giants and the Boston Red Sox, to be played Tuesday.

The Forest Lawn baseball team won the city championship by winning both games of a double-header from the Silk Mill team by scores of 3-0 and 8-1. Shrock and Coppock were the battery for Forest Lawn in the first game and Ambrose and Conroy for the Silk Mill. Young pitched for the winners and Ash for the losers in the second game.

William B. Howison, 72, died at his home near Richwood.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Mann entertained with a family dinner at their home on Mt. Vernon avenue in honor of their son and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Mann were married the preceding day.

Miss Bonnie Marie Pinyerd of Marion and Ernest L. Green of Mendersville, Ind., formerly of Marion, were united in marriage at the home of the bride on South Prospect street by Rev. Theodore Lagerman, pastor of the German M. E. circuit.

Spider Tomato

THE vegetable world has its freaks, and among this year's crop is a tomato found by T. J. Woodcock in the garden of his home at 552 Pearl street.

Produce dealers to whom he showed the freak said it was a "spider" tomato and that's about as good a description as any, for the growths on the otherwise perfect tomato resembled the legs of a spider.

With the opening of the nutting season, A. A. Austin of 418 Cherry street comes forward with a scheme for sorting nuts that he says is 99.44 per cent perfect for separating the good nuts from the bad.

According to Austin, all hickory and walnuts with the hulls on will float, but when hulled and dumped in a tub of water, the good nuts will sink and the bad nuts will float. Simply skim off the floating nuts, empty the water, and the nuts at the bottom are good, full-kerneled tree fruit.

Austin offered this suggestion, because, he says, the dry weather of the summer has left a great many blasted nuts.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, Oct. 7

IN spite of many annoyances, disappointments and complexities, this may prove to be a day of a memorable honor, distinction or favor of a wholly unexpected nature, according to the interesting aspect of Jupiter with Uranus. This may prove compensatory to possible losses, fraud, slander, deception and other trying and difficult situations to be composed. Much wisdom and prudence are called for.

Those whose birthday it is, although the aspects show many annoyances, setbacks and difficulties, may be compensated by some signal honor, favor, preferment, or maybe the friendship of a stranger of powerful position and prestige. There may be sudden disruption, disappointments, losses and fraud or duplicity, unless great prudence and sagacity be brought to bear upon current events. A child born on this day may be disposed to be mutable, serious, and somewhat restless and erratic, but may gain the favoritism of some one of power and authority.

STOREKEEPER FOUND DEAD EARLY TODAY

Heart Attack Blamed for Death of Isaac Barnthouse of Farming Street.

Lying on the floor with his head against an outside door, the body of Isaac Barnthouse, 71, storekeeper of 347 East Farming street, was found by B. J. Redd, a neighbor, when he called at the store this morning for coal oil.

Redd immediately notified the police who in turn notified Coroner Dr. Kenneth Smith. Police Captain Ira Shrock and Patrolman Bert Powell who answered the call were forced to move the body to one side before the door could be opened.

No signs of violence were present and Coroner Smith said that while it was difficult to determine, conditions of the body indicated the man had been dead about 12 hours.

It is believed the aged man had risen from a rocking chair in the store preparatory to retiring when he was seized with the attack and fell to the floor.

The body was removed to the C E Curtis funeral home.

Mr. Barnthouse married Miss Catherine Geer Sept. 3, 1879, in Vinton county. Mrs Barnthouse died 20 years ago.

Mr. Barnthouse is survived by a daughter, Miss Naomi Redmon of 653 Leader street, a son Gottke Barnthouse who is in a World war veterans' hospital in Milwaukee, Wis., two brothers, Daniel of Columbus, and Jerry of Springfield, O., five grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

For many years he had his own truck farm on West Fairground street, peddling the produce from house to house.

PICKETS AGAIN OUT IN FARM WAR AREA

Highways Blocked as Truce Ends; Tension Noted as Result of Death.

By The Associated Press

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 6.—The farm war armistice has been broken.

After resting up a while, farmers in Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota were back on the highways today, attempting to stop farm shipments to improve prices.

Their activities were concentrated in northwestern Iowa, southeastern South Dakota and southwestern Nebraska, scenes of the most vigorous disputes during August and September. The traditional weapons of the striking farmer—heavy planks, logs, machine belts studded with spikes, and clubs—were their accoutrements as they again swung into action.

Tension was noted among some of the groups as the result of the killing of Nordhal Peterson, 25, farm picket, near Canby Tuesday night. Ole Anderson, 57, and his son, Leonard, 18, were held by Sheriff M. F. Pitzner at Canby to have confessed yesterday they were responsible for the killing of Peterson.

Authorities indicated first degree manslaughter charges would be filed against both.

Mrs. Hoover Gives Speech at Wooster

BY BESS FURMAN

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6—Most of the way back to Washington from the Iowa ovation, Mrs. Hoover shared the railroad station cheering for the President, but at Wooster, O., the President shared honors in a college yell given for Mrs Hoover.

At all the stops but Wooster, President Hoover made the speech and Mrs. Hoover smiled and waved. At Wooster, Mrs. Hoover made the speech, and the President smiled and waved.

Three generations of her ancestry had helped to build that community. Her great-grandfather, William Henry, and two of his friends obtained the charter to found it in 1807. Mrs. Hoover saw that event depicted in the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary pageantry last spring, and received there an honorary degree from Wooster college.

A cheer-leader mounted on schoolmates' shoulders, led the "Wooster U" yell for Mrs. Hoover. The students had only 15 minutes notice the train would take a special stop, but the whole school was there, including President Wishart and his wife. Justly they joined in their Alma mater song.

warmest central Ohio receptions given the President. A crowd of 4,000 cheered and applauded as the President and Mrs Hoover appeared on the platform. The Bucyrus High school band played. The cheering was so prolonged that the President held up his hands for silence.

Speech is Lauded

"That was a good speech last night," someone shouted.

"Well, I don't think I need to make a speech to you then," the President responded. "Your enthusiasm is a speech to me. It is very encouraging and helpful."

The high school band and 1,000 citizens greeted the President at Upper Sandusky, an unscheduled stop. An effort to carry a microphone to the platform of the car to amplify his brief remarks failed because the wires were too short. Waving it away, the President said: "This welcome is the best speech that could be made anyway. Thank you for the cordial welcome which you and the other people have given me."

At Forest, where his train slowed for a moment, he took note of a company of small children standing near the tracks waving flags.

U. S. BANKERS ASSAIL GOVERNMENT COSTS

Slash in Operating Expense Urged; High Taxes Also Flayed.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 6—The demand of the nation's bankers for a reduction of public expenditures became more insistent today with another session of the fifty-eighth annual convention of the American Bankers' association being devoted to a consideration of the problem.

Paul Shoup, vice chairman of the Southern Pacific company, was to add his voice to the denouncement of taxes by delivering the principal address, "Over-Taxation—a Business Viewpoint."

The convention already has gone on record as demanding a reduction of public expenditures and discontinuance of the present high rates of taxation.

"Improvement in general business is shown," the association proclaimed in a resolution, "by advancing commodity prices, increasing volumes of industrial production and railroad traffic, and a sharp decrease in commercial insolvencies."

The association, also by resolution, took a stand opposing the proposals for guaranty of bank deposits and indorsed the services performed by the federal reserve system and the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Francis H. Sisson of New York, was named president to succeed Harry J. Haas of Philadelphia.

"The booking of Calvin Coolidge for Oct. 21, at 8:30 p. m. Marion time) is a high point in an intensive Republican drive over the air," the statement said.

Manufacturer Calls for Support of President by Liberal Voters.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 6—Julius Fleischmann, former manufacturer, local Republican leader, and former mayor of Cincinnati, called on liberals of the nation to vote for re-election of President Hoover and "back him up with wet senators and wet congressmen" in a statement issued through the Republican campaign committee here today.

He described the plan of President Hoover to solve the prohibition questions a "obviously the only clear-thinking solution thus far offered" and that of the Democratic party as merely a "vote-catching hoax."

The committee announced former Governor Myers Y. Cooper would speak in behalf of President Hoover throughout the country on request of the Chicago headquarters of the national committee.

FATHER SAVES SON FROM ROBBER'S GUN

Sidney Man Slays Intruder, Though Wounded Four Times Himself.

By The Associated Press

SIDNEY, O., Oct. 6—Though wounded four times, a gasoline station proprietor managed to kill a holdup man here last night, and thereby saved the life of his son.

The robber was identified by Police Chief William O'Leary as Venicius Clawson, 23, and amateur boxer and wrestler of Houston, Shelby county.

Clawson was shot to death by Elmer Brunner, 45, while the robber was fighting Emil Brunner, his 19-year-old son.

The elder Brunner told police that Clawson, his face covered with a black mask, entered the station flourishing a pistol. Emil grappled with him, and in the melee the robber fired five shots, four of which struck the youth's father.

Emil was knocked to the floor. The father, however, with four painful wounds in his back, crawled to a cupboard and got a gun.

Clawson was just pointing a pistol at Emil, when the boy's father fired a shot into the robber's heart.

CO-OP DAIRY PLANT WRECKED BY BOMBS

Watchman Held Captive as Newly Opened Wisconsin Building Is Blown Up.

By The Associated Press

BURLINGTON, Wis., Oct. 6—Five men early today invaded the new $25,000 milk receiving plant of the Burlington Cooperative Milk association, kidnaped a watchman, and destroyed the building by exploding two bombs. The watchman was unhurt.

The blast occurred about 1 a. m. and shattered windows within a radius of 10 blocks of the plant.

About an hour later, John Eisenbart, 65, the watchman, appeared at the police station. He said five men with pistols accosted him in the building.

The men set two bombs, he said, and then rushed him to their automobile outside. They bound his feet and hands with rope and sped away.

Before the car reached the city limits, Eisenbart said the explosions occurred. The men took him about a mile outside the city and dumped him out. Eisenbart worked his bonds loose and returned to the scene of the wrecked building to find firemen seeking his body amid the debris.

The new plant was opened Sept. 22, by dairy farmers supplying milk to the Chicago Pure Milk association. The farmers previously had been collecting their milk at privately owned plants here but started their cooperatively owned venture in efforts to cut out middlemen's profits.

EXILED ARCHBISHOP CROSSES TEXAS LINE

Catholic Prelate Enters United States After Forced Exit from Mexico.

By The Associated Press

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 6—An exile from his native land for the second time, Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz Y Flores aged Catholic prelate, crossed the international boundary into the United States early today.

The papal delegate was expelled from Mexico by order of President Abelardo Rodriguez, as a "pernicious foreigner" as an outgrowth of his comments on the recent encyclical by Pope Pius XI which discussed the situation in the church in Mexico.

Apparently in good spirits, the archbishop arrived in Laredo at 12:15 a. m., accompanied by two Mexican secret service men. The archbishop left Mexico City in a special plane Tuesday, accompanied by representatives of the Mexican government, but when bad flying weather was encountered the plane stopped at Tampico and the journey to the American border was continued by train.

While he declined to make a formal statement on his immediate plans, he said he would report on his exile to the head of the church.

Hemorrhoids Go Quick

All Pile Misery Ended Without Cutting or Salves

Itching, bleeding or protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you really remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the lower bowel and hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and suppositories fail because only an internal medicine that stimulates the circulation and drives out the impure blood can actually correct the cause of piles. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. Honner & Cooper and druggists everywhere sell HEM-ROID Tablets with guarantee they will end your Pile misery or money back.—Ad.

September Kindly-Month So Far as Weather Goes

March was 'way ahead on September weather.

A comparison with state weather bureau statistics for Marion and Marion local records over a long series of years, shows that September of 1932 came out 1.5 degrees higher than the average temperature higher than the average, and by official computation, and more than one-half an inch greater rainfall than statistics allot Marion.

In face of the fact that Marion has observed and shook when the thermometer fell to the low 40's figures compiled over a period of years show that in Marion in 1896 the reading was 29 and that readings in the 30's have not been considered unusual.

And those who wiped perspiration from dripping brows when the mercury soared to 97, 98, 99 or the high 90's, forgot that in 1899 and 1908, the temperature rose to the 100 mark.

September beamed forth with more clear mornings than any month has shown in a long time. Eighteen of the 30 mornings of the month were clear and sunshiny, but something happened somewhere during six of these days, because the monthly report compiled by the local weather bureau shows that the only 12 days were clear from sunrise to sunset. Nine days were cloudy and nine were partly cloudy.

Just when everyone was beginning to complain about the long dry seige, the clouds let loose with 2.02 inches of rain on Sept. 27 and 28. Previous rains measured 1.00 inches. The total rainfall here for the month was 3.62 inches, or .56 inches more than the average of 3.06.

But the rainfall last month is a mere drop in the bucket when compared with records of the rainfall in Marion in previous years. The heaviest rainfall on the records here for September was 11 inches in 1866. In 1896 the precipitation measured 6.48 inches and in 1903 the measurement was 5.20 inches.

Local Man Gets Stamp Series of Manchukuo

Probably the first of the stamps of the new state of Manchukuo, in Asia, to arrive in Marion, were those received this week by C. M. Heinlen of 848 North Prospect street. Heinlen, a stamp collector, wrote to Manchukuo in June, asking for a few for his collection.

He received his package, mailed with the regular issue of Chinese stamps, since the Chinese do not recognize this new state that has been set up.

The Manchukuo collection contains denominations of one-half fen, or one-half cent, in brown, one fen in red, two fen in gray and five fen in green. In Chinese characters in the new issue are the words, "Manchukuo Post Office." The central design is the picturesque pagoda of Liaoyang and on the sides are stalks of kaoliang in full head.

Heinlen recently began his hobby of stamp collecting and he believes his Manchukuo additions are the most valuable he has made since he started. His collection numbers 10,000 stamps.
